

Privacy Policy

Introduction

We appreciate that you may be concerned with how your personal and financial information is dealt with. This privacy statement sets out our current policies and demonstrates our commitment to your privacy. We may change the content or services found on our website at any time without notice, and consequently our privacy policy may change at any time in the future. You agree to revisit this page regularly and your continued access to or use of the website will mean that you agree to the changes.

Personal Information

If you register to use the password-protected portions of the website, we will ask you to provide us with certain up to date data about yourself, which we will handle in accordance with the United Kingdom's Data Protection legislation. We maintain strict security standards and procedures with a view to preventing unauthorised access to your data. We use leading technologies such as (but not limited to) data encryption, firewalls and server authentication to protect the security of your data. All Group companies, all our staff and whenever we hire third parties to provide support services, we will require them to observe our privacy standards and to allow us to audit them for compliance.

Cookies

By default our public website and secure services, along with most other major websites, use cookies. Cookies are pieces of information that a website transfers to the cookie file on your computer's hard disk. Cookies enable users to navigate around the website and (where appropriate) enable us to tailor the content to fit the needs of visitors who have accessed the site. You may opt to not use cookies, it will not affect the site's functionality, but this change must be made by you in your web browser's settings.

Your Queries

If you have any queries regarding privacy issues, then email us at care@prohealthrecruitment.com. To ensure that we carry out your instructions accurately, to help us continually improve our service and in the interests of security, we may monitor and/or record your telephone calls with us.
